Iowa Rookie Packs a Wallop Both at Mound and Box Office

Robert William Andrew Feller at 18 finds himself in the role of Cleveland's Sunday pitcher

Sunday pitcher! Sunday is baseball's biggest loudest most profitable day The day the crowds turn out The day the best pitchers go to the mound Still

One of the greatest pitchers of all time (some will tell you the greatest pitcher) never walked on the field on a Sunday

Never Sunday Pitcher

We refer of course to Christy Mathewson whose mother a devout church goer always insisted on a quiet rest Sabbath She would never permit boys to play ball on Sunday She established a family rule to that effect—a rule Matty never forgot and never violated

The general public believed Matty's objection to playing ball on Sunday was due to some religious conviction of his own As a matter of fact he had no personal objections

Branch Rickey of the St Louis Cardinals never goes to a Sunday ball game When he was manager of the Cardinals Rickey would turn over the team on Sundays to Jimmy Austin and seek rest—far from the ball park

Sunday pitcher There are many reasons Feller won that assignment As Cleveland's No 1 moundsman it would seem logical he would be called upon to face the other top twirlers of the league

The Box Office Call

Then too Manager Steve O'Neill of Cleveland has decided that one game a week will be enough for Feller—at the age of 18 anyway And while saving the youngster's arm O'Neill decided to save it for the big days

And perhaps most important Feller's weekly stint was scheduled for Sunday because of the box office

Feller was impressive in preseason games His impressiveness earned reams of publicity and brought the crowds So he's Sunday pitcher from here on out And Cleveland's Cy Slapnicka will see to it that his Sunday appearances are duly heralded

DIZZY SHUTS OUT CHICAGO CUBS, 4-0; TRIBE TRIPS BROWNS

Bees Sting Giants Despite Six-Hit Pitching by Rookie Cliff Melton

BY SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The folks may be fed up with Dizzy Dean's whacky words and daffy doings but it's a safe bet no one in St Louis is going to mind much as long as the great one keeps fogging em in

With all his eccentric antics Diz's good right arm is still the most valuable piece of pitching bric-a-brac in the business today

Just as King Carl Hubbell demonstrated last week that he is back with all his stuff for this year's work so has Dizzy

All of which adds up to a continuation of the most famous pitching warfare of the current diamond era between the Giants crack left hander who pitched a three hitter in his first start and the gas house gang's overworked right hand ace with two victories to his credit to date

His first time out Diz just toyed with the Cincinnati Reds and finished all the way on top Yesterday he was really bearing down against the Cards dangerous rivals Chicago's Cubs but the result was unchanged He allowed four scattered hits struck out 10 let only one man get as far as third and waltzed in with a 4-0 shutout his second whitewashing

The victory left the Cards with four victories in five starts just half a game back of Pittsburgh's powerful Pirates whose game at Cincinnati was rained out

The Giants defending the National League pennant lost a fine

M'GUIRK, ESTES ON MAT CARD TONIGHT

LeRoy McGuirk Tulsa Oklahoma's ex light heavyweight champion will return to the Shovel gymnasium ring tonight to meet Buck Estes another Oklahoman in one of the two featured 90-minute bouts McGuirk last week tamed the terrible Texan Johnny LaRue In what was the ex champ's first appearance here since his crown was lifted by Bobby Chick in an Oklahoma match early this year

Much to the delight of some of the fans who have seen him in action previously McGuirk has lost along with his crown the cautiousness with which he defended it Wading in from the opening bell McGuirk absorbed plenty of punishment before he was able to gain the decisive advantage over LaRue Tonight he will be renewing a college rivalry when he faces Estes having attended Oklahoma A & M while Estes was a member of the Oklahoma U mat team

The second headline bout also over the one hour and one half time limit with two falls to win will bring together Marshall Carter of the University of Missouri and Tiger Moore of Benton Ill All four wrestlers in the featured bouts have been here on previous occasions and are already acquainted with Marion fans A 20-minute preliminary will open the card at 8 30 o clock

FELLER'S ARM HURT IN SATURDAY GAME

Muscle Pulled Throwing Curve but Recovery Expected in "Day or Two"

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND April 26 — Bob Feller predicted today he would be ready in a day or two to resume regular mound duty for the Cleveland Indians The brilliant school boy pitcher pulled a muscle in his right arm in Saturday's game with the St Louis Browns

It feels even better than I thought it would remarked Feller who struck out 11 St Louis batsmen in the six innings he worked

Feller's initial appearance this season was marred by an erratic first inning when he gave two hits and walked four Browns to give the visitors the four runs which enabled them to defeat the Tribe 4 to 3

The youth did not disclose to Manager Steve O'Neill until the sixth frame that he pulled the muscle on a curve ball in the first inning The manager immediately replaced Feller with Ivy Paul Andrews

SECURITY BOARD TO PICK COUNTY VISITOR

Permanent Appointment To Be Made at Meeting Here Tonight

Permanent appointment of a county visitor under the dependent children division of the social security program will be made tonight when the Marion county board of public assistance meets at relief headquarters on South Prospect street. Miss Vivian Hall of 412 South Vine street now holds a provisional appointment as the only county visitor.

Miss Hall and three other Marion residents were notified recently they had passed civil service examinations for the position. They are Miss Donna Hartman of 752 South Prospect street, Mrs. Alfred Farr of 196½ West Center street and Miss Mildred Corrlich of 208 Kenmore avenue.

Juvenile Judge Oscar Cast, president of the board, said he does not believe additional visitors will be appointed at present. The board will also pass on applications for aid.

Members of the board are Mrs. John Quigley and James J. Disney, both appointed by the state; O. C. McCurdy as county commissioner, and Judge Cast, representing the juvenile court. Judge Cast also holds the position of administrator of aid to dependent children in the county.

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, April 26 — Mt. Gilead's new $70,000 postoffice will be opened for business Tuesday morning following transfer of records and equipment late this afternoon, Postmaster Carl V. Beebe announced today. The flag which will float from the top of the building will be raised at 6:30 a. m. Tuesday by the Boy Scouts.

No formal observance will mark opening of the new building, which will be dedicated in May. The building proper has been completed several weeks. The transfer from the old building to the new was delayed on account of the delay in the arrival of lockboxes.

chance to move into the top with Pittsburgh by undergoing their customarily disastrous habit of failing to get runs for their pitchers. Rookie Cliff Melton turned in a six-hitter and fanned 13 men for the year's record only to have the Boston Bees catch up with him for a pair of runs in the ninth and post a 3-1 win.

The New York Yankees finally opened fire with all their guns and battered the Red Sox and temperamental Wes Ferrell for a 13 hit 9-5 win in Boston. The victory gave murderers' row a second place leg to tie with Detroit's Tigers, who found Vernon Kennedy's strikeout ball too tough and went down before the White Sox 11-7 for their first setback. This pair of results left Connie Mack's upsetting Athletics at the top of the heap with three wins in four starts since the A's were rained out at Washington.

Brooklyn and the Phillies put on their customary queer assortment of baseball doings with the Dodgers finishing in front 10-6 in one of the day's two 11-inning games after being on the short end of a 6-1 count as late as the sixth frame. In the other overtime tilt the Cleveland Indians also came from behind to nose out the St. Louis Browns 5-4 in the 11th. Responsible for the Brooklyn win were homers by Buddy Hassett and Heinie Manush.

AID ASKED IN OLD CEMETERY PROJECT

Information Sought for Locating Graves in Quarry St. Burial Ground

Assistance of friends and families in locating the graves of the pioneer Marion residents buried in the old Quarry street cemetery was asked today by the civic group in charge of restoring the landmark.

C. P. Curtis, head of the group which started the movement, urged that anyone who knows the location of any grave notify him so that when the actual restoration begins the work can be expedited.

Although preliminary work of clearing the plot of surface rubbish is started, the real work will not be started until a fund of $1,000 is on hand, Mr. Curtis said today.

At present $600 has been raised in voluntary contributions but the goal will assure not only a complete restoration but maintenance of the cemetery over a period of years.

Those who wish to assist in the project to restore the cemetery, one of the few remaining landmarks of the early days of the city, may make their contributions to Mr. Curtis.

Minneapolis continued to serve notice of its pennant ambitions by winning a third straight tilt, defeating the league leading Milwaukee Brewers 8 to 5. Charles Wagner, a hurling rookie from the Piedmont league, allowed the Brewers six hits.

The Millers pounded out 12 safeties, one a home run by Ted Cullie.

Columbus made five hits count in whipping Indianapolis 5 to 3 behind effective hurling by Morton Cooper. Phil Sullivan was chased off the hill in the fifth frame as the Red Birds staged a three-run attack. Their other two markers, both unearned, were off the delivery of Emmett Nelson.

Cooper allowed six hits, fanned six and issued only one pass.

Kansas City rallied with three runs in the ninth to nose out St. Paul 4 to 3, with credit for the win going to Chief [illegible]. Lute Phelps was the losing hurler. Bill Norman slammed a homer for the Saints.

They Both Work

"The Lynds" Put Heads Together To Write Their Way To Success

Instead of choosing between marriage and a career many a topnotcher in American professions and business has teamed up with husband or with wife. In a series of articles, of which this is the first, Sigrid Arne, Associated Press Feature service writer, tells how some of them have done it.

By SIGRID ARNE

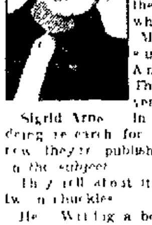
NEW YORK, April 26—The [illegible] think they are fortunate because they are known as "The Lynds." They like it that way.

[illegible] speaking, they're Prof. Robert Lynd of the sociology department in Columbia's graduate school and Prof. Helen Lynd, sociology lecturer at Sarah Lawrence college for women.



Sigrid Arne

They took a flying leap together to the top of the ladder in their profession when they wrote "Middletown," a study of a typical American city. They spent a year and a half in Muncie, Ind., doing research for the book and now they're publishing a second on the subject.

They tell about it this way, between chuckles:

He: "Writing a book with some one you're married to is a soul shattering ordeal. It's really friendly cat and dogging."

PROFESSORS LYND, ROBERT AND HELEN

Writing With Some One You're Married To Is "Soul Shattering"

She: "We divided the work to be done in sections, wrote [illegible] and then edited [illegible]."

He: "We made a deal that neither could throw away the other's work without warning."

She: "And when we finished, both needed a good wife to bring in the carpet slippers."

They are as frank [illegible] about their experience with marriage and work. Marriage is one of the sociological problems they teach. So they accepted a challenge to their theories about 15 years ago when they [illegible].

ROOSEVELT SIGNS GUFFEY COAL ACT

Contains Price Fixing but No Labor Provisions Such as Former Law Had

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 26—President Roosevelt signed the Guffey-Vinson bill today marking a second federal attempt to stabilize the soft coal industry—this time through price fixing alone.

The new law which becomes effective June 1 for a four year period is a substitute for the original Guffey coal act invalidated by the supreme court last year.

Stripped of the labor provisions to which the court objected the new law empowers an enlarged national bituminous coal commission to prescribe minimum prices for coal, promulgate a code of fair trade practices for producers and fine violators 19½ per cent of the sale price of their coal at the mine.

The commission also may fix maximum prices to protect consumers from so-called runaway markets.

The President nominated for the commission which the act created C. F. Hosford Jr. of Pennsylvania chairman, C. E. Smith of West Virginia, Percy Tetlow of Ohio, John C. Lewis of Iowa, Thomas S. Haymond of Kentucky, Pleas E. Greenlee of Indiana and Walter H. Maloney of Missouri.

ect to that of the Muskingum conservancy district.

Pretzman outlined at length efforts of the board to obtain grants from the public works administration, works progress administration and other federal agencies but that the project could not qualify under the rules of those.

[illegible] declared evidence would include testimony of Senator Vic Donahey and Rep. Brooks Fletcher that there was nothing the board could have done to have brought this project along any further and that the board should be retained.

Judge A. A. Baumann of Sandusky county interrupted Pretzman's statement at one point to ask what practical difference would it make to this project if a new board of trustees were appointed tomorrow?

Pretzman replied the new board would accede to federal requirements of supervision by the army engineers over construction which he charged the present board refused to do.

General feeling among Marion business men including the Chamber of Commerce is that supervision by the army engineers is advisable according to past discussion of the subject.

Judge Duncan left the conference chamber prior to the opening of the hearing to inquire of Louis Adams chief counsel for the district as to the state of the treasury. Adams informed him that an assessment of $15,000 had been levied for preliminary expenses, that $7,300 had been paid in, and that the present cash balance was $130 with an unestimated amount of bills outstanding. The court requested financial statements from the association and district directors at the resumption of the hearing in the afternoon.

Politics Charged

The petition alleges the two original directors H. Albert Smith of Columbus and E. F. Bearce of Chillicothe resigned because of political pressure brought to bear by Gov. Davey early in January of 1935.

The conservancy district was formed in December 1934 to develop a flood control project for the Scioto river from its headwaters to Portsmouth and of the Sandusky river to its mouth at Lake Erie.

The plan included 12 large storage reservoirs to control flood waters several ways one of which was to be on the Scioto in Delaware county. A diversion canal to connect the headwaters of the Scioto and Sandusky would be partly in Marion county.

Judges of other counties at the hearing are H. M. Rankin of Fayette county, G. W. McDowell of Highland, James T. Bell of Madison, Joseph W. Adkins of Pickaway, George D. Nye of Pike, Wilbur M. McKenzie of Ross, A. A. Baumann of Sandusky, B. F. Kimble of Scioto, Ralph Sugrue of Seneca, William J. Jones of Vinton.

No recent steps to carry forward the plan have been made pending action by President Roosevelt and congress on a flood control program. The Scioto-Sandusky district would be modeled somewhat after the Muskingum and Miami projects.

LONDON ACTS TO SHUN CORONATION STRIKE

By The Associated Press

LONDON, April 26—The British government moved today to avert a threatened strike by London's 40,000 busmen which might bring a major transportation tie-up while the city is jammed with coronation crowds.

Officials of the ministry of labor's conciliation department scheduled conferences with members of the traffic and transport board and with representatives of the transport and general workers union.

They hoped at least to get the busmen to agree to a truce until after King George is crowned May 12.

The government feared that if busmen adhered to their announced intention of quitting work at midnight Friday the dispute might spread to the city's street car and subway workers.

37 ARRESTS MADE IN GAMBLING RAID

he is in position to disclose his plans.

The club rooms housed probably a most complete equipment ever known to have been set up in Marion for large scale gambling operations. The huge blackboard on which the race tallies were posted and betting odds listed was 6 feet long and six feet high and covered most of the south wall of the room. It was lighted by overhead lights hanging from above. Immediately in front of it was a catwalk about three feet above the floor on which an employe walked while chalking up the blackboard.

Amplifying System

In the center of the main room which was approximately 5[illegible] feet long and [illegible] feet wide hung a public address system amplifier. This was connected by wires with a small enclosed booth beside the back in which a ticker machine brought in over telegraph wires from the various race tracks. Immediately above a chair in front of the ticker machine hung a microphone into which an operator apparently read the race news as it came in from the race track. His voice then could be heard through the amplifier by everyone in the room including the employe who chalked up the results of the various races.

Through the confusion of the raid and afterward while police were dismantling the equipment the ticker machine continued to bring in race returns telling how the various horses stood at different times during the races and finally how they finished.

In the main room in addition to the race board were three card tables about 35 chairs and a table for race followers to use making notes. There were windows at the back of the room and a muslin covered skylight in the ceiling.

Immediately west of the main room were the cage where races were paid off and the teletype printer machine which was concealed from view of persons in the main room. West of these were a storage room in which an old fan and several trunks were stored and a vacant room. West of the vacant room was the front room with windows overlooking Main street in which three tables, two adding machines, several chairs and forms used in operation of the numbers racket were found. On the wall was a sign which announced that beginning today all employes were to turn in their reports by 1 p. m. on week days and 10 a. m. on Saturdays. These hours were understood to be the deadline for writing chances on guessing what the stock and bond sales of the New York market would be for the current day. In the operation of the numbers racket payments are made to those who guess the correct numbers.

Crowd Watches from Street

A crowd gathered on Main street around Viggins cafe over which the club rooms are located when the city bus stopped in front of the stairway leading to the club and the persons arrested were loaded under police guard.

Two men who went into the stairway after the raid was started were taken into custody temporarily and forced to accompany the others to police station. However they were released shortly afterward without any charges being filed against them.

With an unprecedented number of arrested persons on their hands police found regular facilities for handling prisoners inadequate and took over the municipal courtroom. When all of those arrested had been placed in the courtroom Desk Sergeant L. F. Reardon and Patrolman Cunningham began making out arrest slips for each person using the judge's bench as a desk. As each person was brought up the name, address and age were recorded and each was ordered to lay out all money, papers and other possessions. These were placed in sealed envelopes to be returned to them later.

As the persons were booked they were taken into the city solicitor's office with the overflow standing in the hall until a hurried court session was begun. City Solicitor Ralph E. Carhart made out disorderly conduct charges against the customers. Those who pleaded guilty were fined $10 and assessed $6.20 costs. Bond of those who pleaded not guilty was fixed at $16.20 and hearing dates set.

City Solicitor Carhart this morning said charges of frequenting a gambling place probably will be substituted for disorderly conduct charges in the cases of the 15 customers who pleaded not guilty. He said this is to be done to eliminate any possible controversy at hearings over what constitutes disorderly conduct.

Lawrence Viggins, operator of the cafe over which the club rooms are located was among the persons who signed appearance bonds for persons who pleaded not guilty. He signed bonds for two persons.

All Gone By 8:30 P. M.

By 8:30 Saturday night all persons had left police station either by paying fines or posting bonds.

Service Director John V. Ruth obtained a city truck to haul the dismantled equipment from the club rooms Saturday night. It has been stored in the basement of the Eagles building.

Police in Civilian Clothes

Chief Marks and six men dressed in civilian clothes made the raid. Besides the chief they were Captains Mackan and DeWees, Patrolmen Kirts, Cunningham, Underhill and Norton. Patrolmen Wren and Yoakum in uniform were called in shortly after the raid started.

The main entrance door of the club smashed open by Chief Marks had in addition to a night lock a chain lock device that would permit a person inside to open the door only a few inches without completely unlocking it. This however was not [illegible] when the raid was made.

A number of humorous incidents occurred in connection with the raid.

After police had entered the club and held everyone in custody until they could be taken to police station a number of persons begged to leave with reasons why they should leave immediately. One said his wife and children were parked in an automobile nearby and were waiting for him. Several said they merely had dropped in to [illegible] with a person they knew was in the club.

What Are the Numbers?

Shortly after the place had been emptied excepting for policemen the telephone rang. "What are the numbers (stock and bond numbers) for today?" a feminine voice asked. "I'm sorry madam but I can't tell you—I'm a policeman," a patrolman answered.

Later the phone rang again and Service Director John Ruth answered. "Is Mr. Blank there?" a woman asked. "Just a minute and I'll see," the service director answered. He called loudly for the man wanted and then reported "He must have left."

Those arrested when placed in the municipal courtroom presented a study in facial expressions. Some were noticeably pale and sat alone staring into space. Others paced the floor nervously. Some visited and laughed.

One when asked for his name gave an assumed name. The policemen filling out his arrest slip nodded gravely and wrote in the correct name.

Another trembling and nervous found it difficult to speak when asked for his name and address. "Quit stuttering," a policeman said. The man finally blurted out a name. "It took you a long time to think of that one didn't it?" the policeman said as he filled out the slip.

One Has $100

One man wearing a sport sweater and no necktie and probably as unpretentiously dressed as any member of the group laid out $100 when asked to empty his pockets.

Noticing that everyone was obliged to empty his pockets when an arrest slip was made one man in the group was noticed slipping his wallet into his sock. He was not discovered by police and later removed the wallet from its hiding place before leaving the courtroom.

Another had a book of sweepstakes tickets which he said he had been selling for another person. He hid these in a radiator in the courtroom and later recovered them.

ROOSEVELT SEEKS TO AVERT STRIKE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 26—President Roosevelt intervened today to prevent a strike of 25,000 railroad and shipping employes in the New York metropolitan area. He appointed an emergency board of three to try to work out a settlement.

Names of the board members will be announced later.

A walkout of the members of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employes had been scheduled for noon last Saturday but was deferred until noon today to permit further mediation. This failed at meetings yesterday.

The brotherhood is demanding a 20-cent an hour increase in wages.

Acting under the railway labor act the President in his proclamation creating the board said the dispute threatened substantially to interrupt interstate commerce within the state of New York and other states in the eastern part of the country to a degree such as to deprive that section of the country of essential transportation service.

dition sufficient funds for relief.

There have been rumors that the budget even if it withstands the assault of the "no new taxes" group may go into a squeeze play with the advocates of parochial and private school financing.

May Block Budget

These unverified reports were that parochial school friends may attempt to block passage of any budget until the house has had opportunity to vote on the parochial school measures.

The house education committee voted indefinite postponement of the bill to provide a state subsidy of $3,500,000 a year for parochial and private schools thus barring the measure from coming to a vote in the house. The senate had passed the bill.

Legislative leaders also anticipated the house income group may attempt reprisals against the senate on some important bill in effort to force the upper chamber to act on the income tax bill which the house has approved. Such attempts in previous sessions however failed to force the senate to act.

Both branches were to consider bills of minor character at tonight's session.

applied amounts merely to a dragnet which may enmesh anyone who agitates for a change of government if a jury can be persuaded that he ought to have foreseen his words would have some effect on the future conduct of others.

No reasonably ascertainable standard of guilt is prescribed. So vague and indeterminate are the boundaries thus set to the freedom of speech and assembly that the law necessarily violates the guarantees of liberty embodied in the 14th amendment.

The decision reversed a ruling by the Georgia supreme court upholding the statute which was passed during reconstruction days.

Court Agrees To Pass on Pensions

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 26—The supreme court agreed today to review a test case to determine the constitutionality of the old age pension provisions of the federal social security act.

It postponed a final decision at least until next Monday on validity of the unemployment insurance provisions of the federal act and of supplementary legislation passed by states.

Some supreme court observers expressed the opinion that the tribunal might hold up its decision on the unemployment insurance case until after arguments on the old age pension litigation so both could be decided at the same time.

Fifteen opinions were read today by the justices in a two hour session.

Duke Wins Fight To Ban Sale of Derogatory Book

Fast Selling Publication Removed from Shops; Wally's Decree Final Tomorrow

By The Associated Press

LONDON, April 26—The Duke of Windsor won from his Austrian place of self-exile today a fight to have a British book about him taken out of circulation.

The publishers of "Coronation Commentary" it was disclosed not only took the fast selling volume from English bookshops but wrote the duke a note of apology.

That was upon the demand of the former monarch's attorneys who threatened legal action unless amends were made by today.

The action by the publishers came just on the eve of tomorrow's expiration of the six months probation period necessary to make the divorce of Wallis Warfield Simpson final under English law.

Six months ago tomorrow in the ancient town of Ipswich the American fiancee of the Duke of Windsor obtained a preliminary divorce decree from Ernest Aldrich Simpson and started the momentous events which were climaxed by Edward's abdication in December.

Her attorneys within the next two weeks will take the necessary legal steps to make the decree final. Then Mrs. Simpson will be free to marry the duke—probably in June after the coronation fanfare for King George VI has died down.

As for the book it was learned today that Edward read passages of it at St. Wolfgang, Austria only recently.

He was angered for some of the phrases accused him of "muddling, fuddling and meddling" while he was on the throne. Geoffrey Dennis wrote the book.

and he seemed to be getting along all right with his wife. I can't understand why he would do anything like this."

Denies Seeing Him

Miss Kirker claimed she had not seen Owens after the slayings but Brown said the waitress asked a taxicab driver to notify police the man's body was in her room.

The officers said Miss Kirker told him she had been going with Owens about seven months. The woman was released after questioning.

Brown wrote in his formal report on the tragedy: "Possible domestic trouble plus drinking on the part of Owens." He said however the motive was obscure in light of available evidence.

Sheriff Earl Brandel said relatives and neighbors asserted there had been no evidence of previous discord in Owens' domestic affairs.

Police said their investigation showed Owens had been drinking Saturday night. He left the four room White cottage where his family had been living since the January Ohio river flood at 6 a. m. and obtained his shotgun from a friend.

The bartender killed his wife and her mother at close range as they breakfasted, sending charges into their heads. The brother-in-law was slain in his bed. Working in the yard White rushed into the house on hearing the blast. Owens followed his father-in-law when he ran for help. He shot White in the back.

the drunken driving charge after they were called to Avondale avenue at 8:30 o'clock Saturday night on a report that an automobile had struck an electric light pole. Haggerty was released on bond of $500 for appearance in municipal court later.

Trace Course of Car

Officers who traced the course of his automobile reported that it had struck and knocked off an electric light pole [illegible] came to a halt after striking a parked automobile. Tracing the car's movements they reported it was headed north on Avondale avenue and near Silver street went over the curb and across a lawn to Toledo avenue.

The car then went north on Main street, east on [illegible] and northward on Avondale avenue. It went over the curb breaking a [illegible] foot section out of the electric pole, traveled a short distance and struck a second pole carrying [illegible] broken section of the [illegible] to Blake avenue. The car then struck an automobile belonging to P. F. Dickson of 341 Avondale avenue and parked at that address. Dickson's car was slightly damaged. The left front fender and wheel, the bumper and a light of Haggerty's automobile were damaged. Haggerty's car was taken to the Haberman Chevrolet garage.

Ted Woodring of 57 North Main street and his two children Richard 5 and William 8 were injured in a collision Sunday night about 8:30 o'clock at Sugar and Davids street. Mrs. Woodring and two other sons Clarence 9 and Kenneth 3 who were riding in the same car escaped injury. Woodring according to the police report of the collision made a left turn from Sugar to Davids street and the rear of his automobile was struck by a car driven by Walter Young of Gay street.

Car Swung Around

Young was northbound on Davids street and the impact swung the Woodring automobile to the opposite side of the street. Police took the injured persons to the hospital in the cruiser car where they were treated and released. Woodring suffered bruises, Richard a cut lip and William had lacerations on the forehead and the back of the head.

Cars driven by A. E. Williams of the Lido apartment and Otie Grant of Buckeye street and a parked automobile belonging to U. F. Green of 583 Davids street figured in an accident on Davids street at 1:45 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Williams was driving south on Davids street and attempted a left turn to Buckeye street and Grant was approaching from the opposite direction when the accident occurred it was reported.

Grant's car was turned around by the impact and it skidded to the west side of the street where it hit the parked car. Green's car was demolished by the impact and was taken to the Haberman Chevrolet garage. The front ends of both of the other cars involved were also damaged.

Stuart Scowden, 38, of 793 Nye street was cited by police for double parking after his car figured in a collision with an automobile driven by Jack Rodgers of Marion. The accident happened near Center and Prospect streets about 9:30 o'clock Saturday night. Rodgers was driving west on Center street and collided with the other car as Scowden drove away from a parking place police said. Scowden posted bond of $1 for appearance in municipal court later.

Report Mishaps

Two drivers reported to police that they struck and knocked down pedestrians Saturday night in the uptown district. Apparently neither of the pedestrians were injured police said following the report that both had walked away from the scene of the accident. Their names were not learned by police.

REBELS PUSH FOES CLOSER TO BILBAO

By The Associated Press

Insurgents cut a wide path through Basque defenses today and [illegible] a rebel communique [illegible] only four miles from Durango gateway to Bilbao.

Capture of the town cut off Durango from the Eibar sector to the east. Government railroad lines were severed.

The Basques are in headlong flight an insurgent communique said.

Basque dispatches to Hendaye on the Franco-Spanish border said Eibar's defenders were taking up new positions to prevent encirclement of the important manufacturing center.

TRUCK DRIVER TAKES DENHARDT SPOTLIGHT

By The Associated Press

NEW CASTLE, Ky., April 26—Chester Woolfolk, youthful laundry truck driver today stepped into the forefront in the murder trial of Brig. Gen. Henry H. Denhardt who is charged with killing pretty Mrs. Verna Garr Taylor.

The 26-year old driver of a truck for the laundry operated by the 40-year old widow was injected into the trial by the defense.

The commonwealth special prosecutor J. Ballard Clark says he has instructed the young man not to talk with newspapermen and efforts to locate him have been futile.

Woolfolk, witnesses have testified, frequently drove Mrs. Taylor home from her laundry a few blocks distant.

The commonwealth has carefully guarded the young man and even the people of La Grange where he lives have joined to prevent newspapermen from seeing the young man.

The defense introduced the youth's name into the testimony early last week but since has not referred to him.

254 LUTHERANS ATTEND MARYSVILLE CONFERENCE

Large Delegation to Meeting; Capital University President Speaks

[illegible] Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Maus, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Campbell, Miss Pa[illegible] Miss Mildred [illegible] Miss [illegible] Louise Al[illegible]brecht, Miss [illegible] Miss [illegible] Glover, Miss Pauline [illegible] Miss Elizabeth Stafford, Miss Zetta Mae Woodruff, Miss Josephine Claver, Miss Mary Lodwig, Miss Marian [illegible] John [illegible] George Washburn [illegible] Felix [illegible] Robert [illegible] Ruby Thomas [illegible] Duel [illegible] A. Gilbert [illegible] George [illegible] Schmidt, Dan [illegible] John T. Lodwig, James [illegible] Lowe [illegible] and Ellis Reese.

The collection of $29.64 at the evening session was given to the Capital university fund for the building of a [illegible] and [illegible] hall.

Dr. Mees Speaks

Dr. Otto Mees, president of Capital university, was the speaker at night, from the text Luke 22:31-32: "And the Lord said, Simon, Simon, behold, Satan hath desired to have you, that he may sift you as wheat. But I have prayed for thee, that thy faith fail not: and when thou art converted, strengthen thy brethren."

Two word pictures were drawn, one of a mother in a cottage weeping at her son's departure, the other of the mother standing in the doorway of her home weeping but with joy at her son's return.

"Courts of [illegible] is joyful for those who return," Dr. Mees said as he compared the picture to the church from which young people sometimes turn away and the joy when they return. The church has the same responsibility as the mother for her children, he said.

Mrs. Ralph Handel of Marysville sang and a junior choir of 24 children of the Marysville church sang an anthem, "Praise Ye the Father."

The afternoon session was held in the Lutheran parochial school hall and was followed by supper in the parish house. After group singing of the Luther league rally hymn, Rev. F. M. Koepplin of the St. Paul Trinity charge south of Marion conducted a devotional service. Frederick Coleman, president of the Marysville league, welcomed the visitors and Robert Heimlich of Cardington responded.

Rev. E. J. Goedeking, pastor of the Marysville church, read an inspirational address prepared by William Conrad of Marysville on "Emphasis on Youth," in which the writer called for young people to help to destroy the widespread assault on the Christian church and the Saviour's redemption because, he pointed out, entire denominations which 50 years ago stood fast and firm on the fundamentals of Christian truth are now wavering. False altars are being raised throughout the land and these frauds must be broken down and tramped to pieces.

Leads Forum

Rev. Schillinger led a forum discussion preceding group discussion on the general theme, "What Is Wrong with the World Today?"

Discussing the theme in its relation to public life, Felix Rieber, Marion attorney, pointed to war of labor against capital, abuses of the present bona fide family re[illegible] the administration, political graft and "that human failing known as egoism or egotism." In concluding he said, "We, the young people of today and the business heads of tomorrow, must seriously come to realize that the responsibility rests upon us individually and collectively to be leaders and no longer trailers."

Miss Margaret Seif of Galion Trinity church in her discussion of the topic in relation to the home said, "The home can do much to set standards for the child. Mother and father are perfect in the eyes of the small child. The little boy wants to become a man just like father. The father must ask himself if he desires to be the model on which his son builds his life. Parents who are negligent in church attendance, who seldom or never read the Bible, who are never seen praying, will find it practically useless to urge their children to these holy exercises."

Issues of religion, vocation, avocation, choosing a life partner, friendship and the proper evaluation of right and wrong face young people today, Rev. George Schulliger of Cardington said in discussing the topic from the standpoint of social life. He said, "Life in its entirety is made up of component parts which cannot be separated very well without breaking up a natural sequence and this produces discord in life. If and when all is well in life the home, church, society and public life all [illegible] harmonious and each will be influenced by the other."

Keep the Stubs

Everybody inclined to jump at conclusions about the meaning of the labor relations act decisions has jumped. Some of them have landed in a strange spot.

What the court said was that the labor relations act is a proper exercise of federal authority over interstate commerce. Its ruling affected nothing but the labor relations act.

Yet because the labor act was new deal legislation many hopefuls have assumed that all kinds of law now may be upheld on an interstate commerce basis. This is a foolish but understandable error. Jumping at conclusions does not permit much attention to distinctions.

The trouble is many of the persons who landed wide of the mark now will insist that they must be in the right place and everybody else must be in the wrong place. In years to come in all likelihood they will be as hard to move as persons who get into the wrong seats in a theater, lose their seat checks and then want to pick a fight with the usher when he tries to straighten things out.

One Man's Guess

It is to be hoped the persons [illegible] because Sen. Vandenberg believes there are only 2,075,000 jobless persons in the United States are able to understand their own position.

Their guessing are just as good as Sen. Vandenberg's—but no better. They don't know a bit more than he does about the matter; everything depends on the viewpoint. Some of them want to think the unemployment total is large because that suits them best. The senator wants to think it's small because that happens to suit him best. In the absence of an unemployment census there's nothing else to do.

There's a fable about a group of blind men guessing what an elephant looked like by feeling separate parts of it and maybe that's what the man from Michigan was thinking of when he based his guessing on the proportions of the unemployment elephant's tail.

Periodic Checkup

In the absence of anything better to do and spurred by the economy hot potato passed to them in the President's budget message, congressmen are making a periodic checkup.

It is time to think of adjournment and August is mentioned. The court reorganization bill, all appropriations bills, executive reorganization and possibly wage and hour legislation, it is believed, could be handled between now and then if necessary. But with the exception of the court bill and appropriation measures there is an obvious inclination to let things slide. Nothing seems imperative.

This is a remarkable situation. It is possible the administration may be defeated on court reorganization. Executive reorganization apparently has not been pushed very hard. Wage and hour legislation is in a nebulous state.

That leaves appropriation bills, which are part of the normal procedure and have no relation to administrative programs. In other words it is now believed possible the present session of congress may adjourn without adding a single detail to the new deal. What a contrast to the congresses which have preceded it.

The supreme court, says the administration, must be packed to remove an obstacle which threatens to block the new deal program. Yet though congress has been in session three and a half months it does not know what the new deal program is going to be.

Plainly this isn't the session of congress which the masters of the new order have selected to make history. The only history it can make is by rubber stamping the court packing proposal and too many congressmen have mislaid their rubber stamps to make that a certainty.

Putting It Plainly

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, evidently said exactly what he thought in this remark on the sudden interest which the new deal is taking in economy. "We are for economy but we are not for economy that will paralyze agriculture."

He referred to the possibility that plans for farm aid might be [illegible]. Without knowing what kind of economy Mr. O'Neal is for, one might guess it would be saving, a saving in national defense. In that case it is easy to imagine someone else saying "We are for economy but we are not for economy that will expose America to danger from invasion."

Or if economy in relief were [illegible] someone would protest that it would [illegible] the expense of hungry men, women and children. Even economy in W[illegible] itself where administrative expenses [illegible] high would be greeted with a [illegible] test against the folly of crippling the [illegible] ernment by [illegible]

Mr. O'Neal is [illegible] he [illegible] sists that economy [illegible] as it doesn't hurt [illegible] the risk of [illegible] knows, however, [illegible] [illegible] just when [illegible]

[illegible] of the matter is that the new [illegible] sought [illegible] straightening [illegible] local situations and [illegible] for the direction of the [illegible] local power companies [illegible] money from the PWA to help build municipal owned [illegible] plants [illegible] a threat to the existing [illegible] less [illegible] more of a demand [illegible] power from [illegible] federal power projects like the TVA will not [illegible] to justify their [illegible] throughout the country.

So the taxpayers are about to be asked to spend $[illegible] to help destroy a $[illegible] industry which has [illegible] of a constructive program [illegible] for the reemployment of workmen and [illegible] purchase of much durable goods.

Prize Might Be Better

If the purpose of the investigation is to [illegible] something, it needs to know in order to write future legislation, that the official excuse for all investigation, somebody might also offer another prize of a few thousand dollars to learn what has been omitted from the present public utility holding company act passed a year ago that should have been included.

The [illegible] sentence for holding companies is in the law notwithstanding the desperate efforts of the utility companies to [illegible] it and so are the [illegible] in the [illegible] vast powers over the utility industry by the federal power commission and the securities and exchange commission [illegible] have authority themselves to [illegible] continuing investigation.

Then there's another authorization of about $[illegible] for a memorial to Thomas Jefferson [illegible] the memory of [illegible] has remained in [illegible] the minds of his countrymen. His memory can wait just a few years more to be recognized by admiring citizens [illegible] until [illegible] a balanced budget and the period of monuments for what the fathers of our country did or [illegible] more revenue and significance than it appears to have today.

But what after all is $3,000,000? It's only about one per cent of the average [illegible] deficit these days which have been running around $3,000,000,000. So perhaps to be up to date the saying of pre-Roosevelt days will have to be revised to read: [illegible] care of the million [illegible] will take care of themselves.

News Session

Much of the important news from the national capital is announced in press conferences of high government officials. A few words quietly spoken in the course of such a meeting become the nation's screaming headlines brief minutes later. In a group of stories of which this is the first, the Washington staff of The Associated Press describes for newspaper readers the settings in which some of their big news develops.

BY EDDY GILMORE

WASHINGTON, April [illegible] Big [illegible] breaks quietly at the White House.

Twice a week a hundred odd newsmen stroll into a little round room and form a human crescent about a man at a desk.

The man of course is Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The walls of the room are green, the tint of spring's first leaves. Rows of [illegible] ship prints circle the place and soft light falls over [illegible] from an illuminated [illegible] ceiling.

Feet cease shuffling on the deep brown carpet. [illegible] pencils and paper pop out. The President speaks.

If [illegible] but your eyes it's like being in the [illegible] room with his words leaping from a loud [illegible] except that the tone is more informal. Now and then a question [illegible] called by his first name.

Pencils flying over the notebooks lend a quick [illegible] to the smooth flow of the familiar voice. A reporter up close asks a question.

Chiding him good naturedly the President replies that what he [illegible] is news three months [illegible]

Well [illegible] the newsmen [illegible]

With a flourish of his amber cigarette holder the President [illegible] that in that case it must [illegible] take [illegible] months for the news to circle the globe.

Someone in the back of the room [illegible] out an [illegible]. Eyes swing in his direction. You see the faces now—they belong to correspondents for some of the world's greatest newspapers.

The [illegible] is talking again. [illegible] pulls in their scratchy tempo. You know what he is saying is a piece of important news. An hour later newsboys will cry it from a thousand street corners.

But standing there so close to the desk in that softly lighted room it doesn't [illegible] the headline news should sound [illegible] thing is [illegible]

More questions. The President [illegible] the voice rising and falling [illegible] behind his head, nodding and waving [illegible] faster [illegible] the pencils. Then [illegible] they slow down.

Suddenly comes the [illegible] man saying "Thank you Mr. President."

Now beat it to the telephone. White House news won't wait.

SYRACUSE has abolished the traffic ticket fix and local motorists like it. It's been nearly three years since having a friend at city hall could get a Syracusan off a traffic charge and according to Police Officer A. J. Leahy of the Syracuse accident prevention bureau few complaints are heard.

Syracuse is one of several cities employing some form of the uniform traffic ticket which originated in Minneapolis. Other cities using the plan including Chicago and Evanston, Ill., San Francisco, Spokane, Milwaukee, St. Paul, Tucson, Providence, Utica, Denver, Kansas City and Seattle.

Britain Gains As U. S. Buys Gold

BY PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON [illegible] official circles [illegible] about what is supposed to be an official British government document [illegible] the American gold policy is just swell for Britain. It is said to have been published in London [illegible] from the commercial counselor of the British embassy here and reads in part:

"Much greater price advantages have accrued to the United Kingdom. It is impossible to estimate the direct profits and stimulation to trade and industry which the United States gold policy has brought to other countries. It is certain that the balance of advantage has been [illegible] favored all British countries. The high price placed on gold and unlimited purchases by the U. S. A. are largely responsible for the remarkable prosperity of the Union of South Africa and consequently for the share which the United Kingdom investments in and exports to South Africa have had in that prosperity. Similar [illegible] effects are traceable in the case of Australia, Canada and India."

The quotations are authentic. The document was composed by H. O. Chalkley, C. M. G., O. B. E., British commercial counselor here. He says all this and more.

In fact he concludes the early British fears that the United States would get any trade advantage over her from gold [illegible] have been disproved by the result.

Balance Sheet

The Chalkley report is dated last December but was made public in London only a few weeks ago. A British commentator surmises it might have been better if the U. K. department of overseas trade had delayed publication for a couple of years more. He shudders to think of what will happen when American congressmen get hold of it.

The official reply which will be made here is that of course American monetary policies have helped South Africa, where much of our inflowing gold has been coming from, but the United States has been helped too. Our trade with South Africa expanded 33 per cent in 1936, a large part of the increase being in autos, steel, oil, textiles and tobacco. Also our exports to the whole United Kingdom were 13 per cent greater in value in 1936.

Nevertheless Mr. Chalkley has presented the question of who is getting the most out of it. Treasury Secretary Morgenthau is buying South African gold by selling bonds and increasing the federal debt. This creates South African bank balances here which are being used for the purchase of American products to some extent. The (Federal Reserve Chairman Eccles has said) swells our gold stock too much, encourages dangerous inflation, etc.

The way [illegible] apparently the American [illegible] and the American [illegible] gain while Messrs. Eccles and Morgenthau worry and pay.

But to South Africa [illegible] just ducky. She has [illegible] of gold mine in Mr. Morgenthau's check book.

Fooling

The strangest of all strange congressional hearings was held recently by the house ways and means committee. It concerned the Doughton bill imposing [illegible] advertisement tax.

The committee opened the hearing by locking the windows and [illegible] the door. Then the witness, George Harrison, representing the brotherhoods, was permitted to testify for two days with a committee stenographer at his elbow, but not a word of his testimony was taken down.

The idea of these shenanigans is [illegible] of the supreme court. The bill is to be broken up into two bills, one setting up the retirement system and the other carrying the tax. The tax bill is before the committee but the system bill has not yet been introduced.

Thus the supreme court may never be able to find out that the two bills are linked and thus may hold constitutional whichever of the two comes to it. Some constitutional authorities doubt that such precautions are necessary but at any rate no legislative record is to be made anywhere linking the two together.

Choosy

It may be worthy of note that when President Roosevelt had his White House conference on budget appropriations, the senate appropriations chairman, Carter Glass, was not present. His colleague, the number two of the Glass committee there was Senator Jimmy Byrnes, sixth in seniority on the committee.

Coincidentally A. F. of L.'er John Frey was not invited to the Perkins labor-industrial conference although [illegible] the first meeting of [illegible] type to which he has not been asked.

CHAPTER NINE

[illegible] ing the Grounds

[illegible] the Skip-[illegible] Mar has [illegible] She'll be [illegible] ence descended [illegible] oon

For the space of about five minutes we crunched bacon and consumed coffee without incident. Higgins, looking rather seedy, appeared with fresh toast, opened his mouth to ask about Michael, discreetly closed it again and took himself off. The Skipper smoked furiously and the rest of us kept our eyes on our plates. Then monotonously and with irritating force Gay's fingers began a steady tattoo on the tablecloth. At least two sets of nerves promptly began to act up again. Michael's cup went down with a bang that bathed the surrounding territory in coffee.

"Damn it, Gay, quit that, can't you?"

Gay flared. "Don't be so touchy."

Before I could get in my two cents worth of sunshine the Skipper interposed. "Easy, kids. Let's talk this over."

That being the one thing we all had in mind, we lapsed into silence. The Skipper smiled.

"We might as well look it in the face. These storms always last at least three days, which means that we must stick together or go mad. There's been a tragic accident which we must certainly explain to the satisfaction of everyone if we're to keep from each other's throats—not to mention Jude's family or the local police."

Michael was breathing so fast and so heavily that I could distinctly hear him across the table. The Skipper waited for someone to speak. No one did. She sighed.

"Obviously there are two possibilities. Jude was killed either accidentally or intentionally, and in either case by some member of this household. If it was accidental we should be able to establish that fact immediately. If it wasn't—"

Another pause, this time a breathless one.

Then "—we shall have to establish that fact too," concluded the Skipper.

Michael's voice was hoarse. "But what can we do?"

I answered him with more hope in my voice than conviction. "For one thing we can search the grounds. There must be a thug of some sort out there. It's the only logical answer."

Michael shot me a peculiar look. "Why no[illegible]?" he demanded. "You know damn well that there's no one out there, Jim. We can't help Jude now. Old Foster would give us a fake certificate if the Skipper asked him and we could say that she'd fallen off the bluff in the storm and—and forget about it."

I had known Michael since we were 17 but I had never heard him make such a proposal. Neither had Gay. She gasped in amazement. Once more the Skipper climbed into the breach.

"Michael, don't be ridiculous. Accidents don't need hushing up. And if it's not an accident, Jude's parents and we, her friends, have a right to know it. And no right to let a deliberate murderer remain at large."

Grasping at a Straw

Out of the numbness his speech had produced in my head came an idea. Mike thought the Skipper was guilty. Wild elephants could never have dragged that suggestion from him otherwise. And there she sat, insisting that we investigate. I grasped at a feeble straw.

"Mike! The footprints. The footprints on the tennis courts. There must be someone out there. We'd have noticed the clay on anyone's feet in the house."

Michael's eyes were far away. "Drop it, I say. For God's sake, Jim, what good will it do? I tell you there's no one there. It just keeps things boiling to pretend there is."

"There must be." Gay was on her feet. "Mike, don't be a sap. These grounds must be searched and if you won't go with Jimmie, I will and so will William."

"And so will I," said the Skipper, "and so will Michael."

Michael looked at her a long look that to save my neck I could not decipher. "All right, Skipper," he said at last.

We took all sorts of precautions. Heavy jackets, oilskins, boots, plenty of brandy and Higgins' revolver. With the exception of Cook and Annie we all assembled in the library and none of us looked cheerful.

My own state of mind was a bad jumble. My thoughts were whirling from Jude and the past to the ghastly reality of the present, spurred on by a certain insistent suspicion that made my blood run cold. Action of any sort was a godsend. The probability of accomplishing anything was another matter. I should have preferred leaving both Gay and the Skipper in the house, but there was a glint in the former's eyes that invited no interference and I had never given the Skipper an order in my life. Furthermore I wasn't counting on Michael for anything. Mr. Farrington voiced my feeling to the letter.

"It strikes me, Barbara, that you and Grace will be more in the way than anything else. And Michael has no business out of bed. I should think that James and William would get along much better alone."

Gay's chin came up with a jerk and I braced myself for the deluge, but the Skipper spoke before it could get started.

"Two people can't search these grounds, Martha. Gay and I can take care of ourselves, and I think Michael's mind will be easier if he goes. He's well wrapped up. Don't fuss."

"Barbara, I will not allow it." Her voice was rising. Unless I missed my guess she was warming for a scene and it was going to be a corker. "I absolutely insist—"

But Michael's patience snapped. He whirled on Mrs. Farrington.

"Rot, Aunt Martha. All the servants are here but William, and the doors and windows are locked."

His words were rude and his manner ruder. But Mrs. Farrington amazed us. The explosion for which we breathlessly waited never came.

"Very well, my dear," she said quietly. I could have knocked Mike down with pleasure.

We went out the west door from the gameroom, a wet, cold wind howling up to meet us. Since I had suggested the expedition it was more or less up to me to engineer it. Accordingly I stationed William halfway between the edge of the bluff and the house, with Michael and Gay at intervals along the drive. That left the grounds divided into four sections. I took the Skipper with me. Beginning at the edge of the bluff to the west we went down toward the boathouse. In one way and one only were we better off than on the previous night. At least it was now possible to see more than 10 feet ahead of you.

Water still lapped the former side of the boathouse steps. A large section of the pier had washed away and the boathouse was completely flooded. We went up along the path to the courts, which we scrutinized thoroughly.

The footprints were still there. They ran clear across the courts to the drive, seeming to start from the rocks just above us. It was impossible to tell how large had been the foot that had left those prints or in what direction they had been heading. They were just shallow impressions in soft clay, rather like the marks left by walking across a melting sheet of ice.

The wind was still at our backs. Up the steep and slippery rocks we scrambled, the Skipper disdaining my help. The beaches below us were completely covered with thundering water that boiled up into our faces. Silently I pointed to the scene of Michael's disaster and the Skipper nodded. We went down cautiously, separated at the foot of the rocks and compassed the remaining section of the lawn between us. Nothing. A short distance up the drive stood Gay, looking like a drowned rat. She waved, but only half heartedly.

We went up the drive toward the stable, the wind in our faces and the rain cutting like lashes of a whip. With every step the haunting thought that Jude might have lain for a long time wounded and still conscious in that fiendish whirlwind followed me. It was slow progress.

The east beach was completely flooded. By following the drive we got a clear view both of the section of lawn between us and the house and of the section between us and the beach. I stationed the Skipper at the corner of the garage and went laboriously around both it and the stable, slipping and sliding along on my hands and knees most of the way. Rounding the corner of the stable in safety I could see the solid figure of William far down the bluff where I had stationed him, and between us—nothing.

In front of the stable the Skipper joined me. Both it and the garage were securely padlocked. It seemed to me that to search either of those buildings would be a tacit admission of disbelief in her alibi. I hesitated, but not so the Skipper. Producing a key, she unlocked the stable. Without a word I followed her inside.

We find someone has slept in the room over the garage, tomorrow.

—AN— OLD ROMAN —CUSTOM—

In the early centuries of the Roman Empire an enter[illegible] citizen hit upon the idea of hanging clay tablets in [illegible] of his door containing notices of public interest. The [illegible] found favor among his fellow citizens and we can [illegible] that it became a common practice. At least in the [illegible] of Pompeii one such tablet has been found.

The notice in clay offered living quarters in the building [illegible] which it was attached, but it had a more important reason [illegible] unknown to its author. It was to be the first [illegible] record of a Want Ad.

From that ancient day in that long-dead Roman city down to today notices of individual needs and desires have [illegible] to be a part of community life. There is no need [illegible] the gradual development from those humble be[illegible]ings until the present time. The important fact is that Want Ads have served people in every community down [illegible] the centuries until today they serve a need for [illegible] thing else can substitute.

This week has been set aside by the Marion Star to [illegible] every citizen of this community with this old Roman custom. It is called Week of Opportunities for Want Ad users. Perhaps a few remarks on this almost [illegible] public servant will prove enlightening.

Too few people stop to analyze the small notices that [illegible] every day in the back section of the Star. They would [illegible] if interrogated that one seeking a position or hunt[illegible] the owner of some recently found article they could [illegible] these notices for information. They might even know [illegible] somewhat gray monotonous columns contain offers [illegible] property, articles and services for sale, etc. But [illegible] person gets no further. The wide variety of [illegible] is entirely unkown to them.

Want Ads only begin their service with the examples [illegible] above. Their appeal is so universal that it can [illegible] be said that they record the lives of many people [illegible] cradle to the grave. When Mr. and Mrs. Average [illegible] their child begin to take his first hesitating steps [illegible] to dispose of his carriage and crib—through a [illegible]. As this junior Average Citizen progresses his [illegible] clothes, toys, books, etc., are disposed of and re[illegible] through these same helpful notices. Arrived at [illegible] he reads and uses Want Ads in many ways. He buys a residence for his newly acquired mate [illegible] his worn out car, he obtains a business of his [illegible] so on in one hundred and one ways through [illegible] he helps himself to a fuller life.

[illegible] the meantime his wife acquires additional pieces [illegible] employs a maid as occasion permits [illegible] other services and even has her face lifted through [illegible] helpful notices. And as their family outgrows [illegible] the same cycle begins over again.

[illegible] the cycle is complete and the family's universal [illegible] the Want Ad—has proved its value again.

[illegible] important still the example above is not unique [illegible] hundreds of thousands of times every day, week [illegible] from one end of this country to the other. In [illegible] necessary and universal is the need for Want Ads [illegible] appear wherever the art of reading is common [illegible] are printed in every known tongue and will con[illegible] printed probably until the end of time itself.

[illegible] the most unique feature of this universal service [illegible] to satisfy both sides of any business or personal [illegible]. The same columns which offer articles of furni[illegible] contains notices from those willing to buy furni[illegible] to obtain quick results. Listed near the offers [illegible] available are those from persons hunting em[illegible]—and both these groups of notices are read and [illegible] the same day. This fact proves again the uni[illegible] of Want Ads and explains in part their gen[illegible]

[illegible] use of Want Ads has led at times to abuses [illegible] schemes, stock selling activities and home [illegible] lend themselves to this type of promo[illegible]. As a result a nationwide censorship service has [illegible] by the Association of Newspaper Classified [illegible] Managers. The purpose is to keep the people's [illegible] of the people, by the people and for the peo[illegible] newspaper subscribes to this censorship program [illegible] every effort to keep the offers in its Want Ad [illegible] bona fide and legitimate. Known fraudulent offers [illegible] accepted. Reports by readers of undiscoverable [illegible] given prompt attention and action.

[illegible] "old Roman custom" stands before you not [illegible] the decay of centuries but young and virile, ever [illegible] new today as this morning's sun, but at the same [illegible] and made ultra-useful by constant use "through [illegible]"

FARM TRUCK TAGS TO BE REDUCED

Farmers of Marion and surrounding counties seeking farm truck licenses under the reduced rates as provided in the recently passed Maxwell bill in the Ohio general assembly were advised today by M. P. Baldwin, Marion Auto club secretary, to delay purchase of tags pending receipt of more definite information concerning the bill.

Mr. Baldwin said the attorney general will rule within a few days whether the bill is a taxation measure and effective at once or a regulatory measure effective in 90 days. He said all farmers who purchase tags now and pay the full fee cannot be reimbursed for the excess. The reduction amounts to 40 per cent.

WHY NOT FOLLOW THE

Signs of Spring?

SIGNS OF SPRING can not be overlooked even by the most self centered individual They are too many, too varied and insistent birds that return hedges that pop into leaf and a restless stirring in human hearts

But there are other Signs of Spring that point the way to increased happiness along all the trails of Summer—the advertisements in this newspaper Think of them as guideposts to value If you overlook these signs you will spend without adequate information about new things better products, more beautiful and satisfying merchandise These advertisements truly are the official reports to you by the best manufacturers of the nation, who season by season combine science and art with vast resources to place better things at your disposal

And every time, the advertisements speak with authority They are signed by firms of standing and repute You can trust them and profit by them.

Your Health

BY DR R S COPELAND

Epidemic

The diseases of childhood are usually communicable That is they are easily spread from one child to another They are catching diseases

Whenever a communicable disease occurs in a family it must be reported to the local board of health This is the law in order that every safety measure can be taken to prevent the spread of the ailment

I can not overstate the importance of taking medical advice if you are in doubt It is especially recommended at this time of the year when many of the so called childhood diseases are so prevalent Undoubtedly this temporary increase in cases is due to the uncertainty and sudden change of weather

It is not always easy to recognize one of the diseases in the first days of its course The young sufferer may complain of vague and misleading symptoms At times the positive signs of the disease may not appear for three to five days after the beginning of the illness

Whenever a contagious disease is suspected it is wise to be cautious and the youngster should be put in a room by himself This rule is especially important when there are several children in a household In this way unnecessary danger can be avoided

Many a child has been deliberately and purposely exposed to disease in the hope that he will contract it This is an old fashioned and dangerous custom It is based on the belief that it is natural for a child to have certain childhood afflictions and the sooner they are over the better

Let me warn against this practice What may be a simple and uncomplicated case of measles or scarlet fever in one child may be unusually severe and dangerous in another The child who contracts one after another of the childhood diseases has a lowered resistance and poor health

When you are in doubt it is always best to consult the doctor He will outline the necessary treatment and prescribe the necessary medicine Bear in mind that diet general hygiene and nursing are of vital importance in the treatment of these ailments

In scarlet fever diphtheria or infantile paralysis it is especially important to resort to energetic measures Under such circumstance it may be best to send the child to a contagious disease hospital where all the necessary facilities are available

Informal Entertaining An Aid To Real Hospitality

[illegible] entertaining [illegible]

[illegible] manages to en[illegible] [illegible] not [illegible] [illegible] her guests. No guest can have [illegible] when the hostess [illegible] and you [illegible] her [illegible] those who have [illegible] entertaining dur[illegible] are adopting the [illegible] friends to drop in [illegible] some holiday [illegible]

[illegible] this meal [illegible] of breakfast and [illegible] should be planned to [illegible] food mainly dishes [illegible] ed in advance [illegible] practical equipment [illegible] to produce a de[illegible]ous brunch right on the dining table even to preparing some form of eggs and grilled bacon.

This is an ideal way to entertain a group of lively young people when some daughter are a home from college days. Any casual meal has [illegible] of a party appeals to teen age guests.

For Sunday Guests

Or why not ask some friends to drop in for brunch some rainy spring Sunday? One wise advantage of such informal entertaining is that the guests will not expect so lavish a meal as the formal dinner produced late in the day.

Start with fruit of course which should be prepared the night before. Have a chilled fruit cocktail made up of segments of grapefruit with diced pineapple, a few halved maraschino cherries garnished with a sprig of mint. A spoonful of mint ice might be added just before serving.

For a change try the popular broiled grapefruit. Have the segments of the fruit cut and loosened, sprinkle with brown sugar and slide under the broiler just before serving. Another welcome entree ready in advance might be baked apples and cream.

If you prefer a more substantial dish than the traditional eggs and bacon surprise your friends with creamed finnan haddie on toast. Buy the fillets which eliminate struggles with bones. For a very special dish fluff in a beaten egg just before taking up the fish. Make the toast freshly on the table as it is needed.

Attractive "Special"

A hot plate special will always win appetite. This can be made up of broiled lamb chops served with a broiled slice of pineapple and a garnish of crisp watercress. For vigorous young appetites try this combination of sausages baked in bananas.

Six bananas unpeeled, six to twelve small link sausages (eight to sixteen sausages to a pound).

Slit each banana lengthwise from tip to tip to form a pocket, being careful not to cut through the skin on the under side. Place one or two link sausages into the opening of each banana.

Arrange bananas in baking dish, slit side up, and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) about fifteen to twenty minutes or until sausages are done. This will serve six guests.

Muffins, popovers or hot rolls may be accepted at the brunch. Other requisites are plenty of coffee, marmalade or perhaps cookies. Since the table may be set and most of the food prepared the night before, this type of meal offers the hostess a real opportunity to enjoy her guests.

Your ingenuity will suggest many delightful variations to such mid-day entertaining.

VARIETY OF RECIPES PLEASING TO TASTE

These Will Help in Arranging Attractive Menus for Spring

Chicken Baked In Milk

Broiled chicken, fried chicken, fricassee chicken, chicken with dumplings. Spring is just the time to try chicken baked in milk.

Cut chicken into portions, sprinkle with a mixture of salt, pepper and flour. Saute in shortening or chicken fat until browned. Put into baking pan and sprinkle lightly with flour. Cover with liquid using all milk or half milk, half stock.

Cover and bake in slow oven until nearly done. Remove cover during the last half hour of cooking to brown. If the sauce separates drain off and beat with a rotary beater to restore smoothness. Chopped parsley may be added or a few chopped chives for variety.

Fruit Gingerbread

This recipe is useful when guests are anticipated since it may be stored in the refrigerator until ready for use.

Cream three-fourths cup shortening and one cup light brown sugar. Sift together three cups flour, one-half teaspoon baking soda, one teaspoon baking powder, one-fourth teaspoon salt and one teaspoon each ginger and cinnamon. Add to first mixture and store in ice box until ready to use.

At baking time remove mix from ice box and break up with a fork. Beat two eggs thoroughly and to them add one cup sour milk and three-fourths cup molasses. Add liquid mixture gradually to dry ingredients, beating constantly. Blend well. This mix may be baked in this form to serve with whipped cream or place two and one-half cups drained fruit such as peaches or apricots in the bottom of well greased square cake tin and pour the gingerbread batter over fruit. Bake in moderate oven [illegible] minutes. Slide out as upside down cake. Serve with plain or whipped cream.

Tomato Dinner Ice

This is excellent for variety and for its appetizing appeal with a substantial dinner. The luncheon hostess also will snap it up as a new idea since it forms a good partnership with any meat course.

Four cups tomato juice, two tablespoons minced celery, two tablespoons finely minced parsley, one tablespoon sugar, two teaspoons salt, one-half teaspoon white pepper, two tablespoons lemon juice.

Stir all ingredients together and turn into a tray of mechanical refrigerator, stirring frequently while freezing. When partly frozen put into cold bowl and beat with a rotary beater or use electrical mixer if you have one. Return to refrigerator until time to serve.

Holland Tomatoes

Six tomatoes, salt, pepper, one-fourth cup minced bacon, fine bread crumbs, six slices bread, chopped boiled ham, prepared mustard.

Cut tomatoes in halves. Sprinkle cut sides with salt, pepper, minced bacon and bread crumbs. Place tomatoes in a greased pan and bake in hot oven (425 degrees Fahrenheit) until tender. Toast the bread and spread with ham and mustard mixed together. Place a half of tomato on each slice and serve at once.

Cheese-Orange Spread

If your husband doesn't like whipped cream on his gingerbread try grand "icing". Combine one package cream cheese with grated rind of one orange and two teaspoons powdered sugar. Cream well and add one and one-half tablespoons orange juice. Also delicious for cup cakes.

How To Prepare Tasty, Inexpensive Meat Loaf

Shaping the Loaf

Adding Seasonings

BY MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
Associated Press Writer

A few simple tricks used in preparing a meat loaf will convert it from a nondescript combination to one of the family's favorite dishes.

First, the meat loaf should have a well-blended variety of seasonings—no one of which is too pronounced.

Second, the ingredients should be well mixed and the loaf firmly pressed or molded so that it won't separate during cooking, and the slices cut after it is cooked will be even.

In the third place, there should be enough moisture in the loaf to make it palatable. If it is too solid or heavy it will be difficult to digest.

Use Fresh Meats

Meat used in the loaf should be fresh and have a good flavor. Inexpensive cuts are just as satisfactory as the more expensive sections since grinding makes meat tender.

Three meats—beef, veal and pork—were used in the loaf shown in the illustration. A number of variations may be made. An all-veal loaf is tasty. So is an all-beef loaf. But a little variety is generally better. Consequently smoked ham may be used in place of the beef or veal in the recipe given.

Mix Meats Well

In preparing the loaf the meats were mixed thoroughly to give a well blended, velvety texture. Three hard-cooked eggs were placed end to end in the center—to lend a decorative touch to the loaf when it is cut in slices.

After the combination had cooked for 30 minutes in a covered pan in a moderate oven, two slices of bacon and two tablespoonsful of chili sauce were placed on top of it. (Catsup, pickles and numerous other relishes may be used to give a crusty [illegible].)

The housewife who budgets her time will plan to cook other things at the same time the loaf is in the oven. Foods which she may serve with the meat loaf include scalloped potatoes, [illegible] baked squash and baked tomatoes. A pudding or other baked dessert which requires the [illegible] temperature as the loaf may be selected.

Savory Meat Loaf
(Serves Eight)

One pound beef round, ¾ pound veal round, ¼ pound pork fillets, 2/3 cup crumbs, 1 [illegible] spoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, [illegible] seasonings, 2 uncooked eggs, 3 hard-cooked eggs, 2 bacon slices, 2 tablespoons chili sauce, 1 cup [illegible] water.

Mix the meats, [illegible] thoroughly. Add the crumbs, [illegible] all other seasonings, [illegible] uncooked eggs and knead the loaf until well blended. Put half the mixture in the baking pan (as illustrated). Add the cooked eggs and roll the rest up and over them. Pat the ends and top well. Place the loaf in a small baking pan. Add half the water and put on a lid. Bake 40 minutes in a moderate oven. Baste twice. Add the bacon and sauce and the rest of the water and bake 30 minutes. Carefully remove to a serving platter.

Suggested Seasonings
(These Give the Delicate Flavor)

Two tablespoons minced onions, 2 tablespoons minced green peppers, 4 tablespoons minced celery, 1 teaspoon minced parsley, ½ cup water, ½ teaspoon salt.

Mix the ingredients and simmer 10 minutes in a covered pan. Add liquid and all to the meat mixture.

Marriage Meddlers

Dicky and Madge Are Found Resting at New Hampshire Retreat

"SHIP AHOY! Port our helm! Port it is!"

The calls came clearly to me from across the New Hampshire mountain lake and I rose abruptly from my chair upon the screened porch of the bungalow perched upon a point jutting out into the water and hurried to the railing. For I knew the voices which were shouting the absurd calls. Junior and his cousin, Roderick, Dicky's orphaned nephew whom we are rearing as our boy's brother, were yodelling their triumphant pleasure at being permitted to take a boat out alone to go fishing.

"Mohammed Also Allah!" Dicky ejaculated from the porch hammock where he had been enjoying an after-breakfast nap. "You're the grandmammy of all the Jack in the boxes ever made. One yowl from those kids and the roof of your box comes off and you bob up and down on your springs, every nerve aquiver to see what they're up to. If you'd confine your jumping to your solitary moments I wouldn't mind. But you always give me the jitters too. My [illegible] is shattered."

I laughed comfortably, for Dicky already had uncoiled his lazy length from the hammock and was standing by my side at the railing. I knew that he was as eager as I to see our small lads after their morning adventure. They had been permitted to row around the end of the lake nearest to us, keeping near the shore. But they had been out of our sight during their trip, and they were correspondingly jubilant at their independence, while I and, I knew, Dicky as well had been correspondingly and unreasonably uneasy.

They came round the bend and resting their oars, saluted us eagerly.

"We saw some whoppers," Junior reported, and Roderick echoed "Some fish, I'm telling you!" Then Junior made a chivalrous offer:

"Want to come fishing with us?"

"Later today," Dicky told them. "We're busy just now."

"Okay." They took up their oars with unconscious beauty and alacrity and we watched them go back around the cove.

"They're growing up," Dicky commented, and I knew [illegible] he was seconding [illegible] feel us chagrin. "They [illegible] it, but they really did want us. How about it, old girl? Does it sting?"

"No," I told him, [illegible] mendacious, but he [illegible] at me with lazy smiling unbelief.

Dicky Gets Serious

"Hello, Joan," he intoned. "Darby salutes you."

I summoned my [illegible] and tossed back a gibe.

"Just so you're a devoted Darby, not a philandering one, I don't mind," I said, and saw a queer expression flash into his eyes—and out again. It was gone so quickly that I wasn't certain his eyes had mirrored anything unusual. But I was a bit startled, nevertheless.

"By the way, that wasn't all I came [illegible]

[illegible] busy when I asked [illegible] just down [illegible]

It [illegible] In the early [illegible] of my marriage the [illegible]

The eyes [illegible] I told [illegible]

"Then I believe," he said. "Now in the first place, [illegible] up here?"

"Do you mean all [illegible] me?" I answered.

"Just you," he [illegible]. "The kids are also in [illegible] Bill and [illegible] if the [illegible] as tall as I [illegible] legs boards. [illegible] Lord, does that make me feel like Methuselah—are having [illegible] time and I get [illegible] such good [illegible] physically. It would be a shame to take [illegible] away until they have to go. And [illegible] princess Faith [illegible] that baby [illegible] she ought [illegible] Katrina [illegible] stay. [illegible] Katty [illegible] anyway."

"I think it doesn't matter much [illegible] where she is [illegible] as she [illegible]," I said slowly with a tug at my heart as I thought of the tragic and complicated life problem which my cousin's winsome wife, the devoted nurse of my children, was facing.

Faced by a Decision

"Poor girl, she's surely up against it, Dicky," [illegible] said, but his words were perfunctory and I knew that he had instantly dismissed Katherine and her troubles from his mind as soon as he h[illegible] that she would remain with the children.

"But I wish you could come [illegible]," Dicky said. "Don't you think the royal family can manage to get along without your supervision for a while?"

I winced a bit at his gibe, then realized that there was no malice in his reference to my remaining in New Hampshire because Philip Veritzen was requiring the presence of both Noel and Mary near the hospital a few miles away where Queen Olga was slowly convalescing from a severe illness with her daughter, Princess Olina, in constant devoted attendance at her bedside.

She had played her regal role sublimely, this dowager queen of Transvania who with her daughter had been taken from their palace by revolutionists and rushed secretly to America as bait to dangle before Philip Veritzen until he should have delivered [illegible] his entire fortune for their ransom.

Only my father's acumen and clever plotting had saved their lives upon that awful night of battle between the government men and the revolutionists who had planned to kill the royal women—and Noel, the elder Veritzen's messenger—as soon as the money was safely on board their boat.

But when everything was over and the two women had been transferred to the luxurious quarters on the Veritzen yacht, Queen Olga's nerves and physical strength collapsed together. We had seen her transferred to a nearby hospital at the head of which was an old friend of Philip Veritzen. The elder Veritzen had insisted that Mary and Noel take up quarters with the Princess Olina and himself at a hotel nearby.

"It isn't the royal family which is bothering me, as you very well know," I said. "It's Mary. I've felt as if I ought to be near her in case that father-in-law of hers—"

An Ominous Letter!

"Thinks up any new deviltry," Dicky finished my sentence quickly. "I know. That's a very dear of you and I appreciate it—much. But there's something come up just a sly—yesterday in fact, just before [illegible] he gave me [illegible] where [illegible] New York [illegible]
